

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1834.

The Bank against the Government.—We published in the Post on Tuesday, some extracts from the National (Bank) Gazette, which are of considerable importance at this time, as asserting a claim to new powers on the part of the Bank and as indicating the course marked out by Mr Biddle for his satellites in and out of Congress. We re-publish the extracts, for the purpose of obtaining for them the more particular attention of our readers—they are as follows:—

"The Bank was involved with the national politics by the aggressions of 'the government' at Washington; it was so assailed, that when it stood on the defensive, it stood not for itself alone, but for the constitution and the laws, and that main national object, a sound currency; the politicians in and out of Congress, opposed to the JACKSON ADMINISTRATION AND THE VAN BUREN SUCCESSION, AVAILLED THEMSELVES—QUITE WARRANTABLY—OF THE SITUATION AND EFFORTS OF THE BANK, WHICH WERE OF JACKSON COMPELSION; THEY COMPLICATED IT FURTHER WITH THE GENERAL POLITICAL STRUGGLE, AND TURNED ITS WHOLE CASE TO ACCOUNT AS FAR AS POSSIBLE, AND WITH PERFECT PROPRIETY, FOR THE CAUSE OF OPPOSITION AND TRUE REPUBLICANISM."

"It may be expected that the principal Whig orators will exhibit, in their deepest colors, and under every aspect and tendency, the relative situation of the government and country, and the evils which the events of the recess have disclosed or made more manifest. They must, with all the flowers of their rhetoric and the energies of their patriotism, rouse the people and shake the throne. This is the season—before usurpation has become in any material degree prescriptive, and corruption too familiar—to denounce anew, from the most imposing THEATRE, the abuses and heresies by which the Republic is vitally threatened."

The reader who has marked with careful attention the political events of the last few years, may well be surprised at Mr Biddle's arrogance in claiming that the Bank, a corporation without a soul, has been engaged in laudable efforts to protect the "constitution and the laws." But waiving the ridiculous character of this claim, and admitting for the sake of argument, what no reasonable man will for a moment credit, that the Bank has been so engaged, it will be well to inquire by what authority it has acted, and from whence it derived its right to abandon its legitimate functions, and become a party in the political arena of the day? For what purpose was the Bank chartered by Congress? Will it be claimed that its government was constituted the special protector of the "constitution and laws"—that its members were incorporated that their united powers might be brought to bear with greater effect upon the political questions of the day?—Certainly not. The Bank was created to act as the fiscal agent, the servant of the government, and not as the arbiter whose province it is to decide upon the correctness or expediency of the measures of those to whom the people have delegated the power of administering it. If it be once admitted that the Bank has a right to decide upon the measures of the government, and to exercise its influence for or against those measures, then is the will of the Bank the government of the nation—for, with a perpetual charter, which it would easily obtain, and with its officers, its hangers on, and its debtors in every city and village in the country, it would soon obtain entire control of all the local elections, and thus govern the country to its entire content. It seems to us that this claim, now for the first time officially announced, is too monstrous for even the adherents of the Bank to recognize—and certain we are that it is a claim which the people at large will, as with one voice, condemn as arrogant and repulsive to the last degree.

The Bank, it seems, is not anxious to contribute to the recent efforts of the Whigs to dissolve their connection with it. Mr Biddle thinks, and rightly too, that a league offensive and defensive, should not be so easily broken; and that the Whigs, as they were once confident of swimming by the aid of the Bank, should not now abandon it, in its sinking moments. They "AVAILLED THEMSELVES OF ITS EFFORTS"—they unitedly "set their lives upon a cast," and he is determined they shall also UNUNITEDLY "STAND THE HAZARD OF THE DIE."

In the last paragraph we have quoted, will be found Mr Biddle's official instructions for the getting up of a second panic. The Whig orators "MUST"—we suppose from the authoritative tone assumed that he has a right to command—re-enact the disgusting scenes of the last session, and present to an admiring world the proud spectacle of a portion of two deliberative bodies chosen by the people to look after their rights, misrepresenting their constituents, and not only endeavoring to bring the government of their choice into disrepute, but prostituting their talents and the influence of their high stations in the service of a "monied oligarchy," whose confessed aim it is to exercise that controlling influence over the "laws and the constitution" which belongs to the people alone. It may, perhaps, be considered problematical how far they will succeed—but we have full confidence that with the experience of the past year before them, and assisted by the developments which have been, and still are, rapidly making of the Bank's character and claims, the people will neither suffer themselves to be crushed by its "secretures," nor frightened by the croaking of its paid advocates in Congress, who have no alternative but to serve the master who has bought them, with unflinching zeal, or starve out right—miserable examples of the extolled "mercy" of the British Bank.

Maine.—John Fairfield, Esq., of Saco, has been nominated as the democratic candidate for Congress from York District—Mr Goodwin, the candidate at the former unsuccessful election, having declined to run a second time. There is little doubt of Mr Fairfield's success.

An Herculean Task.—The Raleigh (N. C.) Star is endeavoring to explain away the late Democratic victory in that State. It would do better to follow the example of its Swig brothers in New York, and decant upon the fact that "sweet are the uses of adversity."

The citizens of Lowell have held a meeting and voted that they do not stand in need of any instruction upon the subject of slavery, from Thompson, the anti-slavery lecturer, who was sent over from England to enlighten us Jonathan upon the evils of slavery.

Mr Webster's Confession.—Mr Webster, in his speech at the Charlestown Swiggery, said:—

"If one set of opinions are paid and others are not paid, which of the two are most likely to be embraced? [a lawyer's question.] Those that are paid are adopted by those who will write and fight for pay, and those individuals then carry on war against the community on the basis of their own interests."

Moral.—The people of Charlestown have been doomed by the State to a tax for many years in Bridge tolls, to indemnify the old bridge corporation for a wrong done, if done at all, by the State itself. The suit that is to free them from this tribute, wrongfully carried to Washington, remains for years undecided by that apology for a court, the Supreme Court of the U. States—and it remains undecided through the influence of Daniel Webster, the retained counsel for the vested rights concern, at whose beck the Judges move and rest. This is a war made "upon the community" of Charlestown—but the good swigs of that town do not believe that Mr Webster makes it upon "the basis of his own interest," for if they did, they would never have swilled down the wine him that was devoured at their recent swiggery, the birth place of his confessional speech.

Mossie, the Improvisatore, has returned to N. York, and commenced giving entertainments at Clinton Hall. Miss Wheatley, of the Park Theatre, has been playing with Knowles at Albany, in his play of The Wife.—The Siamese Twins are at Columbia (S. C.)—The report that they had quarrelled about a love affair, turns out to be "a weak invention of the enemy." A Mr Kirby is about to attempt a balloon ascension at Cincinnati. Mons. Saubert is in Mobile, pocketing the ready at a great rate.

A person was recently killed by lightning in Mobile, while lying on a feather bed. Feathers are non-conductors, and the bed is generally considered the safest place during a shower. The Mobile Advertiser thinks the mystery can only be explained, by supposing that some part of the person's body was in contact either with the bedstead, the chimney, or the wooden partition of the room near to the chimney.

The Nashville Republican, a staunch Democratic paper, lately edited and published by Allen A. Hall, has passed into the hands of S. Nye & Co., and will, for the future, be under the editorial control of Washington Barrow, Esq.

In the proceedings of Engine Company No 20, published in yesterday's Post, in the last line but five, for propriety" read prosperity.

The quantity of Flour arrived at this port, from the 29th ult. up to Tuesday at noon, amounted to 28,751 barrels.

John Howard Payne is in Cincinnati soliciting subscriptions for his new periodical. He will pass through the greater part of the Western country before his return.

The U. S. Circuit Court, for the District of Columbia, is now in session—Chief Justice Cranch presiding.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Swig Meeting at Cambridge.—We notice by the account of the proceedings of the federal meeting in Cambridge, that the editor of the Courier has taken that town into his special charge. We suppose he has resided there long enough to make him a voter, but we are somewhat surprised that the old standards of Cambridge should have so quietly placed themselves under the direction of a man who has hardly been a resident. The citizens of Cambridge have heretofore evinced some degree of independence in their elections, but it seems they must now be placed under the discipline of a Boston empiric, and made to swallow a large dose of nauseating stuff, as appears by a column of the Courier of yesterday. We hope the republican spirit of Cambridge will arouse itself, and go forward with its whole strength, in opposition to the aristocracy, who would force Mr Hoar upon them through the instrumentality of the city juno.

Presentments by the Grand Jury.—The Grand Jurors for Suffolk, made the following presentments to the Municipal Court, this (Wednesday) morning:—

Seth Sumner, for forgery. He was arraigned this morning, pleaded Not Guilty, and was put under bonds of $1000, to appear for trial at the January term. Edward Keys, Thomas Fitzgerald, and George Birch, for Illegal Voting, at the late gubernatorial election.—Patrick Donnelly, for manslaughter. Edward C. Purdy, editor of the Boston Whig, for a libel on Horatio H. Weld, editor of the Boston Galaxy—published in the Lowell Bulletin, of the 4th of Nov. Azariah Cooley, Aaron Cooley, Jr., and Owen McCormish, for assault and battery. Van Buren Lansing, for assault on a watchman. Wm. McKenna, for larceny, and for assault and battery of Henry Comerars, with intent to rob him of $1040. McKenna was arraigned, and pleaded not guilty to each indictment. John Lynes (two bills), Paul Hall, Betsey Larry, Thomas Lucas, John McGuire, (two bills) Alexander Webster, (alias Palmer) George Smith, (alias John Thompson) for larceny. Lynes and McGuire pleaded guilty to each indictment. Michael Mitchell, for escape from the House of Correction. Elizabeth Eaton, C. O. Messenger, for obtaining goods under false pretences. Otis G. Randall, for embezzlement.—Trans.

Mr Wilde.—An invitation was recently given to Mr Wilde, of Georgia, to partake of a public dinner, in answer to which he has given a long reply, stating that he presumes the design of his friends was to break his fall from the dizzy height from which he had been recently thrown by the late Congressional election in that state. The supposition is, no doubt, a very correct one, and we admire his judgment in having perceived it. He tells us, however, that it was an unnecessary measure, as it is not likely to disorder his faculties, and that as they, no doubt, desire from him an exposition of his views and feelings, with regard to men and things, he is better prepared to give it in a retired situation, than he could be over the cup of wine with which he would have been favoured at a public dinner. In this matter he has probably learned some wisdom from the blunders of others, one of whom rendered himself ridiculous by a certain ebony and topaz toast, and another exposed himself to well merited reprobation for invoking upon his country "war pestilence and famine," in preference to the elevation to the Presidency of the man of the people's choice.—Balt. Repub.

Tuscaloosa News.—We have just learned by letter, that F. S. Lyon has been elected President of the Senate. The vote stood thus, for Lyon, 15—Erwin, 10. Also, that Samuel W. Oliver has been re-elected Speaker of the House of Representatives, in opposition to Samue Walker, of Madison county. They were tied twice at 40 each, and on the third balloting one of the members who had been voting for Walker withdrew, and Oliver was elected.

We also learn, that the successful candidates have pledged themselves to support the administration.—Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser.

TRIAL OF THE CONVENT BURNERS.

Correspondence of the Reporter of the Boston Morning Post.

East Cambridge, Wednesday, Dec. 3.

The trial of BUZZELL proceeds very slowly, the government having contented itself so far with simply laying the foundation of the evidence against him, though towards evening some witnesses were examined, whose testimony was somewhat ominous to him. A considerable portion of time has been occupied in the examination, to draw out facts respecting the discipline of the Convent, from some of the members, but nothing was elicited calculated in the least to impeach the character of the institution. The Lady Superior (Mary Ann Ursula Moffatt) stated, on the examination, that she was born in Montreal, and entered a convent at Quebec, when 17 years of age, and after remaining there 20 years, she came to Charlestown, to supply the place of the Superior who had deceased. Her testimony was characterized by great intelligence and simplicity, and moderation of manner, and some portion, though not possessing any legal bearing on the cause, may be interesting to some of your readers. In answer to a number of interrogatories, she testified—

"They call me mamma, or mother, in the community—they never address me by the name of Divine Mother—they never confess to me—they confess to the Bishop or a priest, once a week—the office of Superior does not represent the Virgin Mary—auricular confessions are only made load enough to be heard by the priest, who is in another apartment, separated by a partition, through which is a small aperture—the bishop does not take upon himself to pardon, he only reads the prayers ordained by the church. The nuns never converse together after 7 in the evening, but in their hours of recreation may talk about what they please—they are all allowed to read the scriptures—we have assemblies once a week, when the members make declarations of small faults, but not attended with any penance, and the Superior only advises them. * * * Miss Reed entered as a pupil to receive instructions, so as to be able to gain her living—she was taken in out of charity—she had an opportunity to know what took place in the convent, with the exception of the school-room—she was not introduced into the school-room, because she was much older than the young ladies in it, and very ignorant. She desired to be taken into the community, and we promised, that if she possessed sufficient strength of mind, courage, and constancy, we might take her in, or at least recommend her to some other community.

She eloped, about 4 months after she entered, because I would not allow her to take the white veil—she was not taken in as a candidate for the white veil—candidates take the white veil in three months, and the black veil in two years and three months.* * * Miss Harrison—(called the "Mysterious Lady," in reference to a paragraph in the Mercantile Journal, headed "Mysterious,") respecting her elopement from the Convent,—had the brain fever—was out of her mind—left the Convent on the 28th of July—before she left she suffered much from the odor of the print—she was strange and extravagant in her manners—said she was afraid she would lose her senses. She went to Mr Cutters, staid there an hour; till Mr Runney took her to Mr Cutting's at West Cambridge.

* * * On Saturday night, Mr Cutter said that the people might destroy the Convent, if they did not see the nun, and I told him that the "Right Reverend Bishop's" influence over ten thousand brave Irishmen might destroy the property of our neighbors." * * * Mary Ann Barber (alias Mary Benedict Joseph), more than eight years a member of the community—was at the convent on the night of the 11th August—between 9 and 10 was awakened by the Superior, who told me to dress as quick as possible, and collect together the community and all the young ladies. I did so—I endeavored to keep them tranquil—I went to the window to see the mob collecting in front of the house—heard them use abusive language to the Superior—they called for the "Figge Head," and said she was made of brass. * * * We were all in the building when they commenced breaking the windows—I conducted the young ladies to the summer house in the garden—I did not endeavor to secure any thing. * * * Miss Aarion always experienced herself as being very happy, and said she would not change her situation on any account.

Elizabeth Harrison, (alias Mary John.)—I have been a member of the Community 13 years.—I was a teacher of music—I did not leave it on account of any difficulty—had no cause to leave but mental derangement. If any body had asked me the day after I had left, I should hardly have thought it possible—every thing was done to contribute to the happiness of every member of the community, as well as my own—never had any desire before that time—I have no recollection of leaving—have an indistinct recollection of being conveyed to Mr Cutting's in a carriage—I left the convent on Monday afternoon, and came back on Tuesday evening—I cannot answer what I did at that time—I came back with my brother and the Bishop—when I returned, the superior received me with open arms, and said she could not have existed another day, if I had not come back—I am still a voluntary member of the community, and no consideration whatever would make me change my situation—have always had as free correspondence with my friends as I desired.

Bishop Fenwick was examined, but nothing was elicited from him having the least bearing on the case.

Warren Draper—furnished the editor of the Mercantile Journal with an account of the rumors current respecting the abduction of a nun, at the convent, out of which the article "mysterious" was compiled—is a freeman—was present at the scene—arrived on the ground just as they were breaking in the windows of the lower story with clubs—after breaking in the front door, quite a number of persons entered the building—saw them throw chairs, mirrors, books, &c. out of the windows—some of them came to the window, with a large book, and saying, "here goes the Bible," set fire to it with the torch. The first attempt to fire the building did not succeed, and they came out and procured some new kindling.

Thomas Hooper—(one of the Charlestown selectmen)—I arrived when they were in the act of breaking in—I told them that the story about the lady was all false—that the selectmen had examined the premises and found every thing to their satisfaction—told them that there were 50 children, and a sick lady, besides the other nuns, in the building—one replied that no female should be injured, but that the cross must come down—(meaning the cross on the building.) They were at this time breaking up the furniture, and several voices cried out—"Now for the torches." The idea of setting fire to a building so extensive, with fifty children in it, sensibly shocked me, and to induce them to desist, I told them that if they contented themselves with what they had then done, they might possibly escape, but that if they brought torches they would certainly be detected. The safety of the children became paramount in my thoughts, and I groped round for the sleeping apartments, and called for the Superior, and was told that the children had all escaped. At that time the mob had possession of the whole building—finding it impossible to save the building, completely on fire, I returned home.

The following witnesses, Messrs Thaxter, of Watertown, and Fay, of Cambridge, both having children at the Convent school, were the only ones, who have as yet connected Buzzell in any manner with the riot:

Levi Elaxter—* * * In driving by the convent, we saw two men near the gate, who seemed to shrink up near the fence—that's looking rather suspicious—Mr Fay got out and went up to them—I soon heard loud talking—one of the most talkative and boiterous said a great deal about blood shed by the Roman Catholics, and about convents—said convents were bad institutions, and kept females against their will—we told them that the selectmen had examined this institution and found all the evil reports about it untrue—one of them answered, and said—"No matter, it must come down." I told them to inquire of Mr Runey and Mr Cutter, and they replied—"They were as violent as any of us, a little while ago, but they have been won over." By this time, a very tall man came bustling in, slapping his hands about, and said he was known down in town, and up here too—that he had beaten one of their Irishmen, and was ready to beat as many as they had a mind to bring, three at a time. He ordered me to "take my horse out of the gateway, as it would be in the way by and by, and that they would want all the room." When the prisoner first came into court, I was not certain he was the tall man, till I heard him speak.

S. P. P. Fay—I was with Mr Thaxter—I saw a man who answers perfectly the description of the prisoner at the bar—there was a moon and twilight at the time—at the examination before the justice, I was struck with a peculiarity in the tone of his voice—I remembered it to be the same which I had heard at the convent gate—he came running in and said, "I am the man that whipped their Irishman, down by the canal;" and turning to one of his acquaintances, he said—"and didn't I trim him well?" some one replied to him "yes; you are a good fellow; come to Boston sometime, and I'll treat you." I inquired of some of the persons he addressed himself, to what his name was, and was told it was BUZZELL. When I heard his voice at the examination, it struck me instantly as being that of the man I had seen.

The court adjourned before Judge Fay's examination in chief was concluded.—Believing it to be unnecessary to accumulate testimonies to the excellent character of the late convent, much direct evidence on that point is omitted.

New College.—We understand that a university has been founded in the western part of Ohio, at a beautiful little village named Chagrin, situated on the shore of Lake Erie, about 20 miles from Cleveland, which has been named, in respect for Dr Willoughby, of our Fairfield Institution, "The Willoughby University of Lake Erie." Its charter, we understand, is the most ample of any institution of that state; empowering it to confer degrees in the arts, sciences, &c., and a medical branch, by the name of "The Medical College of Lake Erie," has been lately organized, in addition to the other departments of the University, and which went into operation on the 1st ult. under the most favorable auspices. Francis W. Walshe, M. D. and Thomas W. Donovan, M. D., we are informed, have been appointed Professors in the Medical College; the former as professor of the principles and practice of surgery, the latter as professor of the institutes and practice of medicine and medical jurisprudence.—N. Y. Evening Star.

Yale College.—We notice by the catalogue of Yale College, lately published, that there are only sixty-nine who have entered the Freshmen class this year; last year there were one hundred and twenty-six who entered the same class! making a falling off, in one year, of fifty-seven. In looking at the catalogues of other colleges, it will be seen that in most of them a greater number have entered the Freshmen class this year than were entered the last. Why is it then, that so great a falling off in numbers, in the entering class, should have taken place in Yale? The answer is obvious. It is because of the political attitude which the officers and the hangers-on of the College have lately assumed. Democrats in different parts of the country have refused to send their sons to an institution where such a political blue tinture prevails, as now exists among the officers of that institution, and those who are connected with it.—New Haven (Ct.) Register.

The Maine papers assert that Mr Sprague is about to leave the State, never to return as one of its inhabitants. We ventured a surmise to that effect, some time ago.—It is the usual course. Mr Sprague will probably betake himself to Boston, the head quarters of eastern aristocracy, where its sway is fixed beyond danger of a change. Webster, Mason and others left N. Hampshire, and went to Boston for reasons pretty much the same as those which influence Mr Sprague. Democracy was too strong at home for their constitutions. Peindexter may find it expedient to emigrate from Mississippi; but whether he will go to Boston or not, is not ascertained.—Penn.

Arson.—An attempt was made on Thursday night about 11 o'clock, to burn the dwelling house of Mr James Nelson, in the northerly part of this city—between Hoosick street and Middleburgh. Some shavings and rags were placed by the house on the outside, and ignited. The house itself had taken fire, when it was fortunately discovered by some persons coming into town from the country.—Troy Budget.

Steamboat Lost.—The steam boat Halcyon, Shepherd, master, from this port for Fort Leavenworth, was snagged and sunk on Friday last, five or six miles below St. Charles. She lies in eight or ten feet of water, but the heavy deposits of sand, peculiar to the Missouri, will prevent her being raised. Most of the freight was, we have understood, insured. No lives lost.—St. Louis Repub., Nov 18.

From Jamaica.—An arrival at New Orleans gives information that five revenue cutters were assembled at Kingston, with orders to be ready at any time with arms to force the black "apprentices" to work who have refused to conform to the acts of Parliament. The coffee, which was ripened, was rotting for want of hands to gather it.

The Georgia Railroad is undergoing a regular and satisfactory progress, which is to extend from Augusta to Athens, a distance of one hundred and ten miles, and of which about seventy miles will be connected with the great Atlantic Railway from Boston to New Orleans.

We learn that the hardy, industrious and enterprising citizens of Holmes Hole have made arrangements to commence the whaling business from that place. Stock for the purchase of one ship has already been subscribed, and it is expected she will be fitted out the next spring.—N. Bedford Gaz.

Specimens of the South American Cotton Tree, have been sent to Washington from Bogota, by R. B. McAfee. The tree bears two crops a year, one in June, the second in December, yielding from four to six pounds of cotton. Some of the seed will be distributed among the Southern members of Congress.

A good one.—The Broome Co. Courier gives an account of a swig convention at Courtland. Near the close, a discussion arose in regard to the name by which the next convention should be called. It was finally resolved that the Secretary should call the next year's convention "by such name as the whig party shall then be known."

A fellow, brought up before the Upper Police for stealing a table, said he stole it for the purpose of buying rum, and sooner than go without it, so dearly did he love it, he would rather sell every garment he had and go naked.—N. Y. paper.

Shipwreck on Lake Michigan.—The schr. Prince Eugene, with about 70,000 dollars worth of goods on board, was wrecked in Sable Bay, by running ashore in a gale. Vessels were going up to recover what goods they possibly could.

Brevet Brig. Gen. Arbuckle has been appointed to the command (vacated by the death of General Leavenworth) of all the troops on the South Western frontier.

TREMONT ANTI-SWEARING SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of this Society will be held at the Boylston Hotel, School street, on SATURDAY EVENING next, (6th December,) at 7½ o'clock. A general and punctual attendance is requested. W. B. ENGLISH, Secretary.

The subscriber being repeatedly questioned as to the nature of the above Society, and having received several anonymous letters on the subject, takes the present opportunity of stating, that the "Tremont Anti-Swearing Society" is not a party to the anti-swearing movement, but is a purely religious organization, the object of which is to promote the practice of using pure language. The Constitution strictly prohibits in ordinary conversation, the use of profane terms, or any other expressions that would not be sanctioned by the rules of decency and good breeding; and any member violating this rule, or any other rule in connection, incurs a proper penalty. Such are the principles on which the Society was founded. It has been established more than a year, and has now upwards of one hundred members, who meet regularly every month. Thus briefly we have endeavored to satisfy the curiosity of "swags," with the hope that the gentlemen may be induced to gain further information, by presenting themselves immediately as candidates for membership. W. B. ENGLISH.
